

WILLIAM P. KUSACK, JR.
Alum of the Year
2006-2007

William P. Kusack, Jr. (“Bill”) has been a member of JPMorgan Capital Corporation (JPMCC) management team since 1975. He is currently a Managing Director of JPMCC and a member of the Board of Directors. JPMCC is a wholly-owned subsidiary of JPMorgan Chase.

After five years in public accounting with Arthur Andersen & Co., Bill joined First Chicago Leasing Corporation (the predecessor to JPMCC) to build the business of investing in tax-oriented equipment leases. He has held various positions of increasing responsibility and today is responsible for a $6+ billion portfolio comprised of equipment leases, alternative energy programs and affordable housing projects.

Bill earned his bachelor’s degree from Saint Joseph’s College and his MBA from DePaul University. He is also a CPA in the state of Illinois. Bill actively serves on the DePaul University College of Commerce Advisory Council and the Finance Advisory Board.
